CAPTURING LIGHT AND ATMOSPHERE IN YOUR WATERCOLOR LANDSCAPES

Joel Popadics is noted for his traditional approach to watercolor, in particular, his use of green, which has been passed down to him by a teacher who studied with the highly regarded American Impressionist painter and instructor Frank Vincent DuMond (1865 - 1951). He has adapted DuMond's principles and unique palette to his methods in watercolor, particularly DuMond's use of landscape green. Green is notoriously troublesome for many artists, but his approach makes it easy to understand and enables artists of all levels to mix convincing colors for their landscapes. In this workshop he will demonstrate how to achieve "a feeling of light and atmosphere" in a landscape. Techniques for creating clouds and skies will be explored, as well as how to handle all aspects of the landscape.

Joel is the Vice-President of the American Watercolor Society (AWS) and a Past-President of the New Jersey Water Color Society. He's been featured many times in American Artist, The Artist's Magazine, Watercolor Artist, and Watercolor Magic Magazines.
